DELIVERY METHODS

As a patient, you can use cannabis therapeutically by: inhaling vapors (vaping) or smoke (smoking*), ingesting cannabis that is infused in food or drinks, taking liquid extracts such as tinctures under the tongue, and applying cannabis lotions, salves, or transdermal patches to the skin.

DELIVERY METHODS WE OFFER:

CAPSULES
A more traditional delivery method that may prove popular with patients who are new to cannabis.

TINCTURES
Tinctures are discreet and their enhanced bioavailability reduces the time-to-onset, thereby enabling the patient to more effectively self-titrate.

TOPICAL LOTIONS AND SALVES
Especially useful for patients suffering from localized pain, including arthritis. Typically made using coconut oil, topicals and salves contain two ounces of total product.

LOZENGES AND CHEWABLES
Candies and gummies taken orally are infused with varying doses of cannabinoids. These products are available in a variety of flavors.

FLOWER
Still the most common form of cannabis, it is the dried plant in raw form and can be either vaporized or smoked. Inhalation has the fastest onset, although smoking is not the recommended method.

EDIBLE BAKED GOODS
These cannabis-infused products are popular with therapeutic cannabis patients and provide long acting symptom relief with no respiratory irritation.

*We never recommend smoking. See “Smoking Vs. Vaping” card for more info.

DELIVERY METHODS

TRANSDERMAL PATCHES
Transdermal patches allow patients to discreetly receive extended release low-dose therapeutic cannabis.

INFUSED BEVERAGES
Infused beverages and powder drink mixes allow for discreet, easy dosing. Infused beverages offer a slightly faster onset time than other ingestion methods.

VAPORIZER PEN CARTRIDGES
These are convenient and discreet disposable oil-based cannabis concentrate cartridges that have proven very popular in other therapeutic cannabis markets.
